Background and Methodology

Patrick E. Gonzales graduated magna cum laude from the University of Baltimore with a degree in political science.

His career in the field of public opinion research began in the mid-1980s as an analyst with Mason-Dixon Opinion Research. During this time, Mr. Gonzales helped develop, craft and implement election surveys and exit polls for television and radio in the Baltimore-Washington D.C. metro area.

Patrick Gonzales has polled and analyzed well over a thousand elections in Maryland and across the country since that time. Furthermore, Mr. Gonzales and his associates have conducted numerous market research projects, crafting message development plans and generating strategy blueprints for businesses and organizations throughout the state.

Over his 35 years conducting public opinion polls, Patrick Gonzales has been widely recognized by his peers for his ability to conduct unbiased surveys, and analyze the results in an impartial, evenhanded manner.

Mr. Gonzales frequently appears on radio and television in the Baltimore-D.C. region as a guest commentator.

This poll was conducted by Gonzales Research & Media Services from February 22nd through March 1st, 2019. A total of 817 registered voters in Maryland, who indicated that they vote regularly in general elections, were queried by live telephone interviews, utilizing both landline and cell phone numbers. A cross-section of interviews was conducted throughout the state, reflecting general election voting patterns.

The margin of error (MOE), per accepted statistical standards, is a range of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points. If the entire population was surveyed, there is a 95% probability that the true numbers would fall within this range.

Synopsis

Freshly home from Vietnam, President Donald Trump can now get back to more pressing matters in the Oval Office...sparring with the fourth estate, brawling with the loyal opposition, and trying to avoid being sucker-punched by his own cornermen in Congress.

Here in Maryland, 38% approve of the job Donald Trump is doing as president (29% “strongly approve”), while 60% disapprove of the job he’s doing (56% “strongly disapprove”).

Trump’s paltry performance rating has hung over his presidency since tears started flooding the halls of the Javits Convention Center in the wee hours of election night, 2016. Additionally, Trump seems incapable of preventing his sometimes peevish personality from engulfing his administration in political self-immolation...akin to what we witnessed with the Buddhist monk in Saigon 55 years ago.

Only 30% of voters approve of Trump declaring a national emergency to build a wall along the U.S.-Mexico border, while 67% disapprove, including 89% of Democrats and 90% of African-Americans. Figures don’t lie (but liars figure); this is a serious policy issue we as a country should be having in a serious way. Many immigrants have successfully crossed our southern border illegally over the past 30 years. Is this a problem, or is this not a problem?

If 67% of Marylanders reject Trump’s declaration of a national emergency to build a wall - are they disputing the necessity of a wall, saying it’s not a national emergency, rebuffing Trump...or all three? And what about the 30% who approve, what is it they want? A poll cannot adequately resolve these questions...leaders need to. Our political culture has waned to a point where serious discussion about serious issues involving serious people appears as antiquated as sharing, being kind to one another, cleaning up after ourselves, and everything else we once learned in kindergarten.

Fifty-nine percent of Maryland voters approve of the 2-year special counsel investigation into whether or not Donald Trump colluded with the Russians during the 2016 presidential election (52% “strongly approve”), while 37% disapprove of the special counsel investigation (30% “strongly disapprove”). Among Democrats, 80% approve of the investigation.

Larry Hogan keeps defying Newton's third law of motion, which states, "what goes up must come down." Statewide, 78% of voters approve of the job Hogan is doing as governor (48% "strongly approve"), while only 16% disapprove.

I don't think political parties were around when that apple fell on Sir Isaac's head in the 17th century, but he might have reconsidered his third law upon seeing that 72% of Democrats approve of the job GOP Hogan is doing; not to mention the 73% of African-Americans approving of a Republican governor. Eighty-five percent of Republican voters, and 85% of independents approve of the job the Governor is doing.

If Hogan keeps going like this, $E = mc^2$ might be rendered obsolete, also.

Fifty-eight percent of Maryland voters say that things in Maryland are moving in the right direction, while 25% say that things in Maryland are on the wrong track.

Among Maryland voters, 60% favor the idea of a law requiring all employers in the state to pay their workers a minimum salary of $15 per hour (43% "strongly favor" and 17% "somewhat favor"), while 35% oppose a law requiring a $15 per hour minimum wage (27% "strongly oppose" and 8% "somewhat oppose"), with 5% offering no response.

Seventy-nine percent of Democrats favor the concept of a $15 minimum wage.

Politicians are laboring over Labor Day school openings. Among voters, 56% say that all public schools in Maryland should stay closed through Labor Day, while 40% believe that local school jurisdictions should decide when the school year begins. Voters between the ages of 35 and 54 are the only bloc in which a majority don't think schools should be mandated to remain closed through the holiday that marks the end of summer.

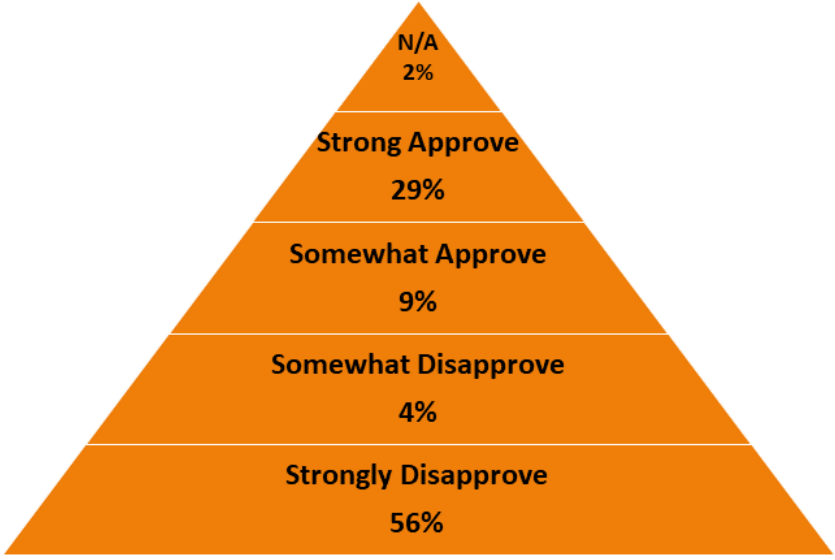

In Maryland today, a bill is under consideration that would allow individuals to put an "X" on their driver's license, to designate their gender as "unspecified." Statewide, 37% of voters favor allowing individuals to designate their gender as "unspecified" on a driver's license, while 51% oppose allowing individuals to put an "X" on their license, in lieu of selecting either male or female.

Labor Day School Opening

We explained to respondents that for the past several years an executive order has mandated that public schools in Maryland begin after Labor Day. We then offered aims for advocates on both sides of the issue. Finally, we asked voters their opinion on whether all public schools in Maryland should stay closed through Labor Day, or should each local jurisdiction and school board be autonomous and decide when the school year begins.

Statewide, 56% say that all public schools in Maryland should stay closed through Labor Day, 40% say that local school jurisdictions should decide when the school year begins, and 4% provide no opinion.

QUESTION 5: Labor Day Schools For the past 3 years, an executive order has mandated that public schools in Maryland begin after Labor Day.

- Some say that keeping schools closed through Labor Day gives families more vacation opportunities and helps businesses in the state.
- Others say that a statewide executive order interferes with local autonomy, and that local school jurisdictions should determine their school-year calendar.

In your opinion, should all public schools in Maryland stay closed through Labor Day, or should each local school jurisdiction decide when the school year begins?
