Chamberlain to See Cabinet Advisers After Hitler Talks

Delays Writing Speech To Parliament Till Address Is Made

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 30.—Prime Minister Chamberlain, facing opposition in a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons with a reshuffled cabinet, was represented as much more concerned about the speech Adolf Hitler makes tonight in Berlin.

So vital was Hitler's address to the rickety European peace framework that Mr. Chamberlain delayed writing his parliamentary speech until after Hitler has spoken.

Mr. Chamberlain was expected to confer with close cabinet advisers immediately upon the conclusion of the Reichsfuehrer's remarks.

Bid For Peace Gesture

In a conciliatory speech in Birmingham Saturday Mr. Chamberlain invited Hitler to make some peace gesture. Observers here, however, were skeptical about results.

Reassembling tomorrow after the Christmas recess that began December 22, the House of Commons will lose no time in going into what is expected to be an angry debate on foreign affairs. The members are eager to hear Mr. Chamberlain's report on his visit to Rome January 11-14.

The plight of the Spanish government and Britain's attitude toward Italy's colonial demands upon France were among many foreign questions to be debated.

May Clarify Demands

It is said that Chamberlain will give a clearer picture of his proposals for peace in a speech to the House of Commons on Saturday.

Further changes such as the Saturday shake-up which brought Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield into the cabinet as minister for co-ordination of defense, appeared unlikely after a conference between Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Thomas Inskip, secretary of the overseas trade department.

Mr. Hudson was the leader of a junior ministers' revolt against policies of War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha and Sir Thomas Inskip, former minister for co-ordination of defense.

Missionary Convention

A five-day missionary convention, starting Wednesday night, will be held at the Arlington (Va.) Church of the Nazarene. Miss Bertha Karna, missionary to the Far East, will speak at the opening session of the meeting.

Science

did not know that it was being guarded with such care. Prof. Rosenfeld stopped at Princeton University and told some acquaintances there of the strange thing that had happened in a Berlin laboratory. A quiet list was sent to Prof. Enrico Fermi at the University of Rome, this year's Nobel Prize winner and now a visiting professor at Columbia University.

He immediately started his colleagues, equipped with an 8,000,000-volt cyclotron, on the problem. Bohr and Fermi both came to Washington last Thursday. The Danish physicist did not know that the secret was out until he talked with Fermi at George Washington.

Then he proceeded to tell the whole group what had happened. Sitting in the meeting were physicists from the Carnegie Institution of Washington, caught at a disadvantage because their great atom-smashing machine first put into operation two months ago was temporarily out of order.

All day Friday and all Friday night they worked to get it in shape and the final triumph, kept secret at the time, came Saturday night. At about the same time unknown to Dr. Fermi who was immediately brought from his hotel to witness the Washington results, his own colleagues at Columbia, Drs. J. R. Dunning and G. B. Pegram, had gotten the same results and Johns Hopkins University chemist, Prof. Fowler, had accomplished the same thing in a different way.

Experiments With Ekavranium. It first happened, as the story now develops, at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin about three months ago. Dr. O. Hahn, chemist, was experimenting with ekavranium—the synthetic element first produced by Prof. Fermi three years ago by bombarding uranium with slow neutrons. Hahn found some of the chemical element barium in his residue.

The German is a chemist, not a physicist. He couldn't believe his eyes, or his test tubes, and believed that some barium impurity had been in the uranium in the first place. He kept it to himself, except for a letter to Dr. Lise Meitner, formerly his associate, now in exile in Sweden because of her Jewish blood, and said her associates say, almost broken because of the interruption of her life work.

She had a different idea, and communicated with Prof. Frisch, one of Bohr's associates in Copenhagen. They saw the real picture and told Hahn about it. Still he was loath to let the world know about it for fear of ridicule and they promised to say nothing until he had made some sort of publication.

Thus it stood when Bohr and Rosenfeld came to America last week.

The exiled woman had come to the conclusion that Hahn's barium was not an impurity in the uranium—that instead the uranium atom has split in two, one half becoming barium and the other half some other element, presumably molybdenum, one of the rare earths and about the rarest of all the substances

BERLIN.—THEN—Six years ago Adolf Hitler, called to form a government under President Paul von Hindenburg, was so overcome with emotion that tears filled his eyes. Here he left with hat in hand shortly after he paid his respects to Hindenburg.

VIENNA.—NOW—A vital figure in world politics, Chancellor Hitler of Germany, acclaimed as "Der Fuehrer," is shown as he addressed through last spring, shaking his fist in triumph and defiance as he proclaimed the annexation of Austria. —A. P. Wirephoto.

Anarchists' Plot In Refugee Haven Reported Foiled

Revolt at Puigcerda Is Short-Lived, Clash With Communists

BACKGROUND—After months of concerted efforts insurgent troops of Gen. Francisco Franco took Barcelona last week, being joyfully received by thousands in the Catalan capital. Other tens of thousands fled from the city into Northern Catalonia and then trudged their way into France. Loyalist army of 300,000 shattered by Franco's power, have joined migration out of Catalonia.

By the Associated Press.
PUIGCERDA, France, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Spanish government was reported today to have smothered an anarchist plot to overthrow the Bourgeois-Madame said a short-lived anarchist revolt was broken up last night.

Refugees from Puigcerda the last few days reported isolated clashes between Communists and anarchists in the town, which has a normal population of 2,500, but into which 15,000 refugees have crowded.

Dispatches yesterday said a Spanish border guard was killed and another wounded in a fight with civilians. An extremist military leader at Puigcerda, a Maj. Quintilla, was reported to have imprisoned the Republican mayor and other town officials in an effort to take control of an area which always has been somewhat politically isolated from the rest of Catalonia by the Pyrenees.

A squad of carabineros, however, released the officials and arrested the revolt leaders. One report said Quintilla was killed as he attempted to flee.

Heavy snowfall in the mountains during the night slowed up flight of refugees toward the frontier. Sixteen inches had fallen by mid-morning and roads in the Puigcerda region were impassable.

The only ones crossing the border in that region this morning were persons already waiting at the frontier.

The French government decided to send two cabinet members to the frontier to take control of the refugee situation. Minister of Public Health Marc Rucart and Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut were expected to arrive tomorrow.

M. Rucart was said to be particularly worried over the danger of an epidemic among the refugees which might spread to French citizens in the border region. A few cases of typhoid already had been reported and isolated.

Three Insurgent Armies Advance Northward

BARCELONA, Jan. 30 (AP)—Insurgent armies struck from three directions today in an effort to break through the government defenses north of Barcelona and complete the conquest of Catalonia, which, insurgents predicted, would be done within a fortnight.

Forces moving northward from Manresa pushed government troops back to Moya village and captured dominating positions, the report reported. Troops operating along the highway beyond Granollers said they dominated the town of Llers del Valles, and other forces moving up the Mediterranean coast captured Puigcerda.

A Burgos dispatch quoted the insurgent high command that three international brigades, apparently newly organized by the government, offered some resistance along the Granollers-San Celoni road.

Most insurgent positions were said to be within 35 miles of Gerona, capital of Gerona Province. The city is 52 air miles northeast of Barcelona, occupied Thursday, and on a main highway to the French frontier.

Manresa is 30 miles northwest of Barcelona. Moya is 15 miles east of Manresa and 29 miles north of Barcelona. Granollers, 15 miles northwest of Barcelona, is an important road to the north. Arenys de Mar is 26 miles northeast of Barcelona and on the coast.

Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco was pushing his drive rapidly with the idea of turning against Valencia and Madrid if complete success in Catalonia does not end the two-and-a-half-year war.

Birthdays

morning. Louise Reiser, who had planned to attend the President's birthday anniversary celebration, will not be able to come to Washington. She is sick in a New York hospital.

The Commissioner's office was crowded with District Building officials. Among them were Lt. Col. David McCook, Jr., Engineer Commissioner; Corporation Counsel Edward Dent, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways; District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, Capt. Patrick Tannery, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and many others. The corridors outside the Commissioner's office were lined with District Building employees anxious to see their film favorites.

Forerunner of the celebration was the "command performance" of "Outward Bound" at the National Theater last night, attended by President and Mrs. Roosevelt and a White House party. Following the show, the proceeds from which go to the campaign fund, members of the New York cast were guests of Mrs. Roosevelt at a White House party.

Belonged by photograph seekers from the moment they stepped off the train yesterday, the movie stars managed to attend a cocktail party given by Representative O'Day of New York at the Mayflower, and a formal dinner, given by Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen at the Shoreham.

Besides the reception at the District Building, their program today included luncheon with Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House and a cocktail party given by Commissioner Willard, Mr. LeBaron also will furnish the music at the gold plate breakfast.

With the arrival of the stars, ticket sales were booming. Tickets for the balls cost $2.50 and are available at the American Automobile Association, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Army and Navy Club, the Keystone Automobile Club, the larger department stores, practically all hotels, and all police stations and fire houses.

Admission to the Earle and Capitol Theaters, where stage shows from both theaters will be shown, is $1. "Red" Skelton will act as master of ceremonies at the Earle while Roscoe Ales handles the same duties at the Capitol.

New Chilean Quakes Throw Stricken Area Into Renewed Panic

Chilian and Concepcion Rocked; Terror Spread Among Homeless

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 30.—New panic was reported today among survivors of Chile's disastrous earthquake after more shocks, described as "very strong," in the same region where between 25,000 and 30,000 already had died.

The new tremors, lasting more than two minutes, rocked Chilian and Concepcion shortly before last midnight, injuring 20 persons at Concepcion and spreading terror among the homeless sleeping in the public plaza at Chilian.

Some sources said the new shocks were almost as strong as those last Tuesday, which destroyed Chilian and left an estimated 15,000 dead among the city's 60,000 population. There was little property left to be damaged, however. At Concepcion several more were under repair.

Ground Trembles Violently

When the ground again trembled violently, reports said, women and children in Chilian screamed and men fought to reach open spaces safe from falling trees and crumbling walls.

The earthquake climaxed repeated, less severe shocks yesterday in the quake area 250 miles south of here.

The government, alarmed by the increasingly difficult situation, called Congress into extraordinary session today to consider relief measures. Informed sources expected the Legislature to seek an emergency loan of about $200,000,000 pesos (approximately $52,400,000).

The work of an army of carpenters building mammoth wooden barracks to house the homeless of Chilian continued.

Constant Epidemic Peril

The carpenters in Chilian, as in other towns, were joined by troops and civilian workmen, who kept the task of removing the debris. Bodies still were underneath and there remained the constant danger of disease epidemics.

Medical supplies and food and clothing are being distributed as fast as they can be obtained from Santiago and cities of the north. The army was in charge of rehabilitation, and eight persons were reported executed for looting and profiteering in Chilian.

One amazing rescue was reported: Chilian workmen said they found alive a 10-year-old boy, caught beneath the ruins of the municipal theater in which 600 persons were killed.

Hitler Urged, in Irony, For Nobel Peace Prize

By the Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 30.—A Swedish Senator ironically proposed Saturday that the Nobel Peace Prize be awarded to Adolf Hitler "because millions look upon Hitler as the prince of peace on earth."

Laborite Senator Brandt, a school superintendent, in a communication to the Nobel Peace Award Committee said the German Fuehrer saved peace at Munich last September by desisting from action, although he had the power to start a new world war.

He suggested that British Prime Minister Chamberlain, participant in the four-power accord which produced Czechoslovakia's dismemberment, might get a small prize, but that "no other name should outshine Hitler."

Senator's Wife Improves

Mrs. Isabel Lawton, daughter of Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, said last night that her mother, Mrs. Annie Farley Smith, was much improved and that the family hoped for an early recovery. Mrs. Smith has been in Emergency Hospital several days. Dr. Leonard Baverly, a specialist of Florence, S. C., came here yesterday at the request of the family.
